

You enjoy the convenience of having pizza delivered, right?

Then please tip the pizza delivery driver.

What some folks don't understand is that delivery people are paid a very low amount. It is expected that they will receive tips and whatever they get belongs to them. Please, if you can afford $16 for pizza, you can surely pay the delivery person $2.50 for bringing it to your door. The driver is, in essence, your waiter on wheels. They use their own car. They work hard to give you the convenience of delivery to your door and take on added costs because of the job. Since you appreciate the service, please tip the driver.

The appropriate tip is

- * 15% or $2, whichever is greater
- * 20%+ for excellent service
- * less for poor service, such as 5% or 10%
- * slightly more in bad weather and for distances over 3 miles from the store

The tip is not included in the bill, nor is it covered by a delivery charge if the store has one. For more information about tipping and pizza delivery in general, please visit our website at tipthepizzaguy.com. After all, not tipping is the height of rudeness.

Having said that, you or someone you know can earn money as a pizza delivery driver. Apply at a store in your area. The requirements are

- * You must be at least 18 because delivery is considered a hazardous job by the US government.
- * You must have a reliable, dependable car because drivers use their own car and put 75 to 100 miles on it every day.

Please remember to tip the pizza delivery driver.

Your address was chosen at random to receive this one-time public service message from tipthepizzaguy.com.